Marlpool weekly News 23.05.25

This week

What a lovely end to our half term we have had, dressing up as Victorians and experiencing life as a child going to school in the Victorian era. The children commented on how strict the teachers were and how different they looked in their costumes.

This week in art reception children have created some tile printing in the style of William Morris and Year 1 and 2 have concluded their learning on Lowry with a city scape collage.

Creative Homework

Wow, we are blown away with all the children's wonderful creations; from bird feeders, to vases, cat toys, bug hotels and bottle shakers. It's so lovely that the children have embraced this task and at the same time becoming a planet protector. We celebrated the children's work in our celebration assembly with children receiving a special certificate. Photos of the children's creations can be found on our gallery page on the school website.
